What is an Alpha Female?

The term "alpha female" describes a woman who is confident, strong, and assertive. She often takes charge in various situations, whether in her professional life or personal relationships. Alpha females are often seen as role models. They break barriers and push boundaries, proving that women can excel in any field. However, this does not imply that they lack empathy or compassion. On the contrary, many alpha females possess a strong emotional intelligence that allows them to connect with others while maintaining their assertive nature. This blend of strength and empathy is what makes the alpha female such a compelling figure in today's society.
