Importance of Knowing Your Skin Type

Understanding your skin type is crucial in selecting the right products that work effectively for you. Not all makeup and skincare items are created equal; what works for one person may not work for another. By identifying your skin type, you can avoid products that may exacerbate issues like dryness, oiliness, or sensitivity.

Types of Skin

There are several common skin types, each requiring different care:

- Normal Skin: Balanced moisture levels, not too oily or dry.
- Oily Skin: Excess sebum production, often leading to shine and acne.
- Dry Skin: Lacks moisture, may feel tight or flaky.
- Combination Skin: A mix of oily and dry areas, typically oily in the T-zone.
- Sensitive Skin: Easily irritated, can react to products or environmental factors.

Knowing your skin type can significantly impact your makeup choices. For example, individuals with oily skin may benefit from matte foundations, while those with dry skin might prefer hydrating formulations.
