History of LEGO Quizzes

The history of LEGO quizzes is deeply intertwined with the evolution of the LEGO brand itself. LEGO, a company founded in 1932, began as a small carpenter's workshop in Denmark. Over the decades, it transformed into a global phenomenon, known for its interlocking plastic bricks that encourage creativity and building. As the brand grew, so did its fan base, leading to the emergence of various ways to engage with LEGO, including quizzes.

Initially, LEGO quizzes were simple trivia games that friends and family would play at home, often revolving around popular LEGO themes or sets. With the rise of the internet, these quizzes found a broader audience online. Websites dedicated to LEGO fandom began to spring up, offering quizzes that ranged from easy to challenging, covering topics like LEGO movies, sets, and history. This digital shift allowed fans from all over the world to connect and test their knowledge, leading to an explosion of interest in LEGO quizzes.
